MEDIA DIGEST

THE UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON IS ARCHIVING NW MUSIC PRODUCER KEARNEY BARTON'S EXTENSIVE COLLECTION

Veteran Northwest musician and UW employee John Vallier is in the process of cataloging Kearney Barton's extensive recording collection for public access. Barton, a legendary local music producer, is said to have over 8,000 recordings ranging from garage rock bands, Quincy Jones, and the Seattle Symphony. John Vallier received a $10,000 grant from the UW's Simpson Center for the Humanities to offset the cost of archiving, which includes converting the tapes to digital, and providing streaming via the UW's Soundcloud page when possible.
