OVERVIEW

NavSeattle is SDOT's pilot program to help residents of multifamily properties navigate their transportation options in Seattle. Launched in 2014, NavSeattle connects multifamily developers and building managers to transportation information, resources, and services to share with current and future residents.

The goal of NavSeattle is to promote transportation options so that as we grow as a city, we continue to address issues of air quality, congestion, and affordability.

KEY BENEFITS

- Ensures multifamily developers and building managers know about nearby transportation options
- Provides information on available transportation options to Seattle residents
- Improves resident mobility in and around Seattle
- Promotes healthy, connected, and livable communities

HOW CAN I HELP MY RESIDENTS (AS A PROPERTY DEVELOPER OR MANAGER)?

- Participate in the new ORCA Multifamily Development Passport
- Distribute maps so residents can safely walk and bike in your neighborhood
- Install digital transit planning amenities, such as a screen that displays real time transit information
- Ensure quality bike parking access
- Hold events at your building to promote transportation options around your area
- Provide information and memberships for transportation options like:
 - Car Share (car2go, Zipcar)
 - Bike Share (Pronto)
 - Carpooling/Vanpooling (Rideshareonline.com)
 - Taxis & Transportation Network Companies (Lyft, Uber, Sidecar)
- And many more!
