A neighborhood constellation of arts organizations as dense as any in the state of Washington has organically formed on Capitol Hill around East Pike / Pine and 12th Avenue. Over the last 30 years, diverse arts groups have moved into this formerly light industrial area, also known as "auto row." As this has happened without a coordinating plan or structure, few in the region are aware of the breadth of opportunities. The Capitol Hill Arts District is an attempt to bring cohesion to this vibrancy. Please take this map with you for exploration of everything the area has to offer.
