This project is funded by the 9-year Levy to Move Seattle, approved by voters in 2015. Learn more about the levy at www.seattle.gov/LevytoMoveSeattle.htm.

CONSTRUCTION IS STARTING SOON

Starting as soon as September 7, we will add High Friction Surface Treatments (HFST) along 24th Ave E at E Louisa St, E Lynn St, and E Helen St. High Friction Surface Treatments are skid resistant layers laid down on areas where more traction is needed for the safety of people driving. This work is weather dependent and is anticipated to last for up to 2 weekends. The best way to be in the know about detours, work hours, lane closures, and other impacts is by signing up to get our construction updates.

WHAT TO EXPECT:

- Weekend work from 7 AM to 10 PM
- Noise, dust, vibration, and large machinery
- "No Park" signs in work area 72 hours in advance of work
- Temporary and intermittent traffic and lane restrictions
